

Name	The Gezondheid en Levens Omstandigheden Bevolking Eindhoven en omstreken (GLOBE)
Description	GLOBE was developed to assess mechanisms and factors explaining socio-economic inequalities in health in the Netherlands.
Location	Eindhoven and surrounding cities
Lead Institute	Erasmus University Medical Centre
Cohort size	18,973 participants (at baseline)
Start Cohort	1991
Follow-up	1992 (chronically ill subgroup) 1993 (random subgroup)(chronically ill subgroup) 1994 (chronically ill subgroup) 1995 (random subgroup)(chronically ill subgroup) 1997 2004 (amplifying the population) 2005 (subgroup of 2004 population) 2011 2012 (subgroup of 2011 population) 2014 (amplifying the population) 2016 (subgroup of 2014 population)
Variables and Measurement methods	Measurements: interviews, self-reported information Information available of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Socio-demographic and economic characteristics</li> <li>- Lifestyle and behaviours</li> <li>- Birth, pregnancy and reproductive health history</li> <li>- Perception of health, quality of live, development and functional limitations</li> <li>- Diseases</li> <li>- Symptoms and signs</li> <li>- Medication and supplements</li> <li>- Non-pharmacological interventions</li> <li>- Health and community care services utilization</li> <li>- Death</li> <li>- Physical measures and assessments</li> <li>- Cognition, personality and psychological measures and assessments</li> <li>- Life events, life plans, beliefs and values</li> <li>- Preschool, school and work life</li> <li>- Social environment and relationships</li> <li>- Physical environment</li> <li>- Administrative information</li> </ul> For full overview of variables see: https://www.maelstrom-research.org/mica/individual-study/globe
Availability and Type of -omic data	None
Design paper	van Lenthe et al. 2014
Website	www.globe-study.nl/